undertow. All this time there have been lond professions of pertect and altogether lovely harmony. But there were offices to fill and there was

money to spend, and the leopard cannot change its spots. True to its instincts and its record, the Democratic party began to work the spoils for all they were worth. In the Legislature they managed, on the score of economy, to legislate Republicans out, and on the same score to legislate Democrats in. They went so far as to upset the non-partisan Emigration Commission of New York city to make a fat place for a Democratic politician. But harmony having been restored, as all Democrats agreed, Governor Cleveland was pleased to regard the whole party as one loyal mass. He would recognize no dividing lines in the happy family; and as an earnest of his good faith he filled the places with his own friends, and gave Tammany-proud, remorseless, unscrupulous Tammany-the cut direct. Whereupon Tammany put fresh feathers in its head, smeared itself thick with war paint, and brandished its newly-ground toma-It is still brandishing, and howling, and swearing that it will have Cleveland's scalp. It has given Mr. Tilden many sleepless nights, in spite of his robust health. In the city of New York the fight between Tammany and the County Democracy has broken out ggain with increased fury, and the two factions have laid siege to the Mayor's office. The demolition of an ancient house in the Rue du Jour to make room for the new Paris Postoffice recalls the strange use to which it was put 200 years ago, when it was owned by Francis de Montmorency, Comte de Boutteville, and known as the Hotel de Royaumont. The eccentric nobleman was pleased to make it the rendez yous of all the duelists in Paris, and every morning gentlemen who had contrived to wous of all the duelines in Fals, and very morning gentlemen who had contrived to pick quarrels over night met there to settle them. The Count received them hospitably, furnished them with the weapons of their choice, with a surgeon, and with a room to fight In, and afterward entortained

The Silver Senator Whose Wife Boesn't Want Him Any Longer.

Chicago Tribuns.

Quite a scandal was created about the Senate last January by the reckless conduct of the distinguished Senator. Within the preceding two years he had taken to drinking very freely, and there was hardly a day when he went to the Senate that the close of the afternoon did not find him under the influence of liquor. As he was very quiet and scarcely spoke to any one when he was drunk, his conduct escaped the notice of all but his friends. These friends watched over the Senator, and when they saw him reaching a condition where he would be noticed they invariably led him off to a committee-room, where he slept until his carriage came to take him to dinner. New York, if not a pivotal point, is a State of so great importance in National politics that what goes on there in a political way is always of general interest. It is only a few months since the Democratic party swept that State by a majority so great that it seemed to have completely used up the Republican organization. Democrata made their boasts that the sweeping victory had quieted all dissensions and united their forces for effective work in 1884, by which time the Republicates could not recover themselves.

Governor Cleveland, the happy accident, was at once labeled and set out as a presiden al candidate. Mr. Tilden, who can brook no rival from his own State in what he regards as his own peculiar field by a kind of right of eminent domain, rigged up his old literary bureau, and once more began to disseninate himself over the country. He was for Cleveland and would be so long as Cleve'and might be for Tilden, but he drew the line here. The vain old man wasn't willing that Cleveland should set up in business for himself. The antagonism has not been made prominent on the surface, but it has given direction to the undertow. All this time there have been lond professions of perfect and altogether mine that the "Bonanza Princes" made the first $500,000 of their enormous for-tunes. Fair's associates were Flood, O'Brien and Mackey. Fair is five feet and eight inches in height and weighs about 225 pounds. He wears a long flowing beard, tinged with gray, and has a florid complex-ion. He was chosen to the United States Senate in January, 1881. He was married in 1866.

THE BURNING OF CHAMBERSBURG. What Jabal Early Says About McCaus land's Raid.

The following letter from General Juba Early, now published for the first time, is the fullest explanation and attempted justication he has ever made of his conduct in burning the town of Chambersburg, Penn., during the war. The letter is an interest ing contributions to the history of the Rebellion:

Lynchburg, VA., June 6, 1882.

Dear She in reply to your inquiries I have to inform you that the town of Chambersburg was burned on the same day on which the demand on it was made by McCausland and refused. It was ascertained that a force of the enemy's cavalry was approaching, and there was no time for delay. Moreover, the refusal was peremptory, and there was no reason for delay, unless the demand was mere fool threat.

there was no reason for delay, unless the demand was a mere fool threat.

As to the other inquiry, I had no knowledge of what amount of money there might be in Chambersburg. I knew that it was a town of some twelve thousand inhabitants.

it was a town of some twerre thousand inhabitants.

The town of Frederick, in Maryland, which was a much smaller town than Chambersburg, had, in June, very promptly responded to my demand on it for $100,000, some of the inhabitants who weré friendly to us, expressing regret that I had not put my demand at $500,000. There was one or more National banks at Chambersburg, and the town ought to have been able to raise the sum demanded. I never heard that the refusal was based on inability to pay such a sum. The value of the houses destroyed by Hunter, with their contents, was fully $100,000 in gold, and at the time I made the demand the price of gold in greenbacks had very nearly reached $3 and was going up rapidly. Hence it was that I required the $500,000 in greenbacks, if the gold was not paid, to provide against if the gold was not paid, to provide agains any further depreciation of the paper money.

noney.

I would have been fully justified by the laws of retaliation in war in burning the town without giving the inhabitants the opportunity of redeeming it.

Very respectfully yours, J. A. EARLY.
